- Participating Teacher

3 Fridays in winter/early spring
9AM—1PM, Breakfast Provided
CUNY Certification of Participation

Creative Arts Team Training Center in Midtown
CUNY-CAT is an approved NYSED CTLE Sponsor and NYC DOE Vendor.

In-Class Mentoring

A representative from the festival's team of Shakespeare experts will visit your classroom four times to provide you and your students with support and guidance as you develop your scene for the Festival.

"The Festival is a reminder to me of the power of CREATIVE EXPRESSION. Social-emotional learning is just as important as developing academic skills. CAT's Student Shakespeare Festival accomplishes BOTH beautifully."

(Second-Year Shakespeare Festival Teacher)

"I've been with the Shakespeare Festival for many years, and this has been the best year yet! It amazes me that the Professional Development days and the Teaching Artists just keep getting better and better. There's always more for me to learn and try out with my students." (Veteran Festival Teacher)

Culminating Event

In late spring, you and your students will join groups from across the City as you all present your 5-8 minute scenes at the historic off-Broadway Lucille Lortel Theatre.

During your Festival day (9AM—1PM), you and your students will also be treated to Shakespeare-themed games and activities, feedback by teaching artists and peer groups, and official recognition of the strengths of their work.

Materials

You will receive comprehensive resource guides and thorough lesson plans from each professional development. Classes will receive a set of Shakespeare books, provided by Penguin USA, CUNY Certificates of Participation, and other goodies, such as wristbands or t-shirts. The Festival experience will be archived through video, photos, and a Yearbook (final report) for you to relive your successes with your students.

Founded in 1993 on the belief that Shakespeare is best learned in the act of performing his words, CAT's NYCSFF has provided over 15,000 young people with a chance to create their own work of original theatre using Shakespeare's text and to perform their work on an off-Broadway stage.

Now under the artistic direction of three professional Shakespearean Actors, NYCSFF is a unique opportunity for educators and students to celebrate the raw power, dazzling beauty, and timeless universal themes of Shakespeare's work.
