

ABOUT US

CAT's Early Learning Program's goal is to support children's development of important life skills and to give educators creative ways to support those skills:

For Students: CAT workshops are designed to support the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts and the New York State Common Core Learning Standards, while addressing essential social-emotional skills.

For Educators: CAT professional development workshops and mentoring programs are designed to encourage teachers to incorporate drama-based activities into the classroom, to promote children's English acquisition and early literacy, social development, critical thinking skills, and emotional growth.

ELP PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENTS

WORKSHOPS FOR EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATORS

The Early Learning Program (ELP) offers workshops suitable for educators and teaching artists alike. All workshops employ CAT's "model-train-practice-reflect" approach to teaching and learning. Professional Development participants receive CUNY/CAT Certificate of Attendance.

Approaching the Common Core Learning Standards Through Interactive Storytelling Levels 1 & 2

This workshop guides and mentors participating teachers through a step-by-step process that will help them build an understanding of the power of oral storytelling in developing children's listening, speaking and language skills as outlined in the Common Core Standards.

We Have Puppets, Now What?

Puppets & Puppeteering

This workshop is designed to give teachers hands-on training in puppeteering as well as identifying ways puppets can be used in the early childhood classroom to develop language skills and address emotional and social growth. Participants work with a variety of puppets, from the basic sock puppet to the more sophisticated soft "Muppet-like" puppet.

Group Building Through Drama

In this workshop, participants are introduced to drama activities that foster cooperative and collaborative learning in the classroom or afterschool setting. Particular emphasis is placed on identifying the step-by-step process as well as personal leadership style. This session can be tailored for teachers at any grade level.

Drama in the Early Childhood Classroom

This workshop explores how the use of specific drama skills - pantomime, still picture and student-centered questioning – can be used to build a student's oral literacy and self-confidence. Participants experience and then reapply (co-lead) each skill set.

Workshops for Parents

These workshops focus on how parents of young children can support their children's literacy skills using song, story, games and arts activities. The workshops are hands-on, participatory and are designed to be fun and educational:

Supporting Your Child's Language Skills

Hand games, finger plays, stories, and songs

Beyond TV

Interactive activities to implement with your child at home.

In-Class Workshops

Storytelling, Puppetry, Issue-Based Dramas, including:

Alphabet Keepers Literacy

Magic Drum Inclusion/Exclusion

Tancho Anti-Bullying

CAT's interactive, student-centered approach has proven successful across ages and abilities. Our teachers say it best:

Children who hadn't spoken all year were, all of a sudden, speaking. Children who were unable to express themselves, whether it was through voice or through actions, were able to participate, to be part of a group—to contribute in a positive way without being pointed out in a negative way. It was an awesome experience for them.

The children became storytellers. A lot of them could retell the stories they heard using facial gestures, movements, and voice changes. They are very attentive during the storytelling; it captures their attention. They feel like they are part of the story, and they really enjoy it.

So many teachers have one way of thinking and teaching. Storytelling takes you outside the box. It is not only where teachers need to go, but where administrators need to go. That's where we want our kids to go – to think outside the box, so we have to model it.
