

The overarching goal of NYCSSF is to familiarize young people and their teachers with the works of Shakespeare; to instill in them an enduring interest in both Shakespeare and the theatre; and to do this by providing an opportunity to collaboratively create an original work focused on social issues relevant to their lives. This is bolstered by additional goals and outcomes:

STUDENTS will engage in the process, by collectively:

- brainstorming issues and themes
- choosing and exploring the text
- planning, rehearsing and performing the scene

STUDENTS will be more familiar with theatrical conventions, language, techniques, etc., by:

- participating in dramaturgy and character development
- learning and using stage directions
- learning and using tableau, improvisation, choral speaking, etc.
- helping stage-manage, direct, cast and block their scene
- plan, design and build costumes and props, if needed
- learning and following theatre audience etiquette

STUDENTS will participate in active reflection, by:

- discussing the issues and themes and how the scene portrays them
- giving and receiving feedback with classmates, teachers and TAs throughout the process
- giving and receiving TA-facilitated peer feedback at the Festival
- reflecting on the entire process via written feedback, post-Festival

STUDENTS will be more familiar with Shakespeare, by:

- learning about Shakespeare, his era, works and universal themes
- reading, speaking and discussing Shakespeare's language and style
- performing their scene and observing scenes performed by others

STUDENTS will improve use and improve a number of essential ELA skills, including:

TEACHERS will learn creative ways to engage standards and complex subjects, by:

- Attending Professional Development/Teacher Training days, accumulating numerous activities and strategies for encouraging student participation, interest in and excitement about Shakespeare and theatre
- Engaging practical methods of exploring relevant, often sensitive issues with their students
- Delving into Shakespearean plays, themes, language, structure, etc. – first with NYCSSF guidance and then with their students
- Working with Teaching Artists to boost their own and their students' confidence in using their imaginations, and working as an ensemble to create an original piece of theatre, using only Shakespeare's words
- Learning to trust themselves and their students with complicated subject matter and high-level skills
- Experiencing practical strategies to address literacy and arts standards, as well as understanding how NYCSSF utilizes many of the Framework for Teaching competencies

Shifts in ELA/Literacy

Shift 1	Balancing Informational & Literary Text	Students read a true balance of informational and literary texts .
Shift 2	Knowledge in the Disciplines	Students build knowledge about the world (domains/ content areas) through TEXT rather than the teacher or activities
Shift 3	Staircase of Complexity	Students read the central, grade appropriate text around which instruction is centered . Teachers are patient, create more time and space and support in the curriculum for close reading.
Shift 4	Text-based Answers	Students engage in rich and rigorous evidence based conversations about text .
Shift 6	Academic Vocabulary	Students constantly build the transferable vocabulary they need to access grade level complex texts. This can be done effectively by spiraling like content in increasingly complex texts .
